LOOSE ENDS ALL TIED UP

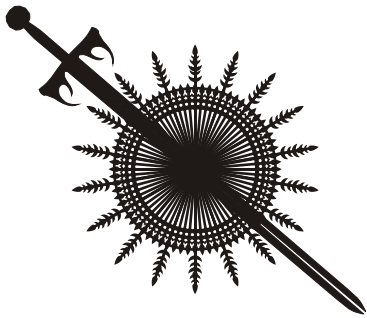

We take an in depth look at the one of the Supremacies most efficient SIC investigation squads. Officially designated i-90210, they are more predominantly known by there street name 'The Thread Cutters'.

Currently they are the best of the best. When it comes to apprehending and neutralizing the 'loose' you can't beat this squad. Recently they were all awarded an upgrade in rank for there exemplary performance, this makes them currently the highest level investigators in the Supremacy.

We caught up with there head detective to ask him what makes his team so productive. "So Assat, just how do you and you squad remain so effective in removing this threat from our streets."

"Well Sinlee, it all comes down to a matter of perspective. Once you understand the beast then you can catch it. At best the 'loose' are pitiful degraded creatures who have put there individual needs above those of there society. At worst they are depraved denizens of the dark who for their own twisted ends would seek to corrupt and destroy the very foundations of the Supremacy."

VICTORIOUS FLEET COMES HOME

The main battle fleet returned home yesterday to Central Military Command in Palace. Just a few months ago the fleet was sent to Sabast channel as a show of force. A number of Talasivian warlords had apparently formed a pact and were amassing their armies near the border in what appeared to be the beginnings of an offensive into the Supremacy.

However upon the fleets arrival in the channel the resolve of these would be attackers faltered. The four Talisivian armies fearful of there impending deaths, instead turned on each other. The fleet commander, the venerable Immortal known as Oberon had this to say about the matter.

'It is laughable to think that these warlords believed that they had an iota of a chance against us. Sometimes these primitives forget how far we reach and the size of our fist. So every now and then we are called upon to remind them.

It would not surprise me in the slightest that none of the warlords ever had any real intention of attacking us. It is more likely they simple saw this as a way to stab each other in the back, as is their way.'

BLAZING BLAKE WINS AGAIN

Once again Blazing Blake proved his prowess yesterday, when he won the tri-annual deck runner 3000 for the 2nd time. Blake stunned the crowds with a near miss as he swept round the last tower for the win. His acheavment is enen more impressive given that he is a privater and not a government or corporate pilot.

It has been speculated that Hydro-gov will fund the building of his next soul streamer, however this has yet to be confirmed by Blake or Hydro.

Of the 12 competitors only 8 made it to the finish line proving once again that you have to have a sturdy soul and nerves of steel to compete in these thrilling races.

Thankfully two of the pilots were found to be safe and sound.

However Liquid Lenny was found to have been shot and killed by some Un-reg as he was busy detatching his parachute. Omni-pol is investigating the incident and no doubt the murderers will in short order be brought to swift justice.

Ferocious Francesca had no time to eject as she misjudged a tight bend, sweeping to close to a tower. She clipped the towers edge and was unable to correct as she plunged head first into another tower. The rescue services have yet to confirm her death as the tower is still burning. Many Un-reg were seen to be evacuating the building and It is unlikely that they will ever recover Francesca's body.
